

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method to measure dose distribution in a patient-shaped phantom with high accuracy. The invention consists of a method of measuring dose distribution in a phantom for radiation therapy treatment verification, a detector configuration in such a phantom, detector improvement and measurement methodology to enable application of correction factors in an accurate way.